Central High School
Grand Rapids, Mich.
May, 1943

Dear Joe,

To you - we the Class of 1943 - dedicate our Annual.
To you - a friend or relative - we address our letters.

To you - a graduate or teacher from Central High - we send a record of our school life, our classes and sports, our work and play.

To you - Joe - in grateful appreciation for what you are doing for us - we write.

You should see Paul towering above the Student Council. It's a democratic council; Mr. Pylman insists upon being only an advisory member. Paul directs our business — complaints about defective drinking fountains — management of noon-time movies . . . If you were to walk in the front door today you'd see a service flag. The Student Council put it there — the Student Council and the student body . . . Climbing the stairs on our way to classes, we look back at it and remember you, Joe . . .

Have you heard about the War Dance, Joe, the one put on by our newly organized War Council? Rife Matthews had a lot of fun dancing with his favorites for the price of a defense stamp. This council is the group that looks after your interests here. They're said to be planning a news service for you and your buddies from Central. They co-operate with other groups in organizing victory lunches and war bond sales. They really keep us buyin' so you can keep 'em firin'!

History is alive.

Did you ever think?

We've been watching your progress around the world, Joe. Malta, Tunisia, Dakar, and Buna are constantly on our minds. Even seventh graders can point out Bizerte on the map.

We're learning more than geography, though. We're learning to understand our own great democracy, its ideals, its foundations, its leaders, its problems. There's more, too.

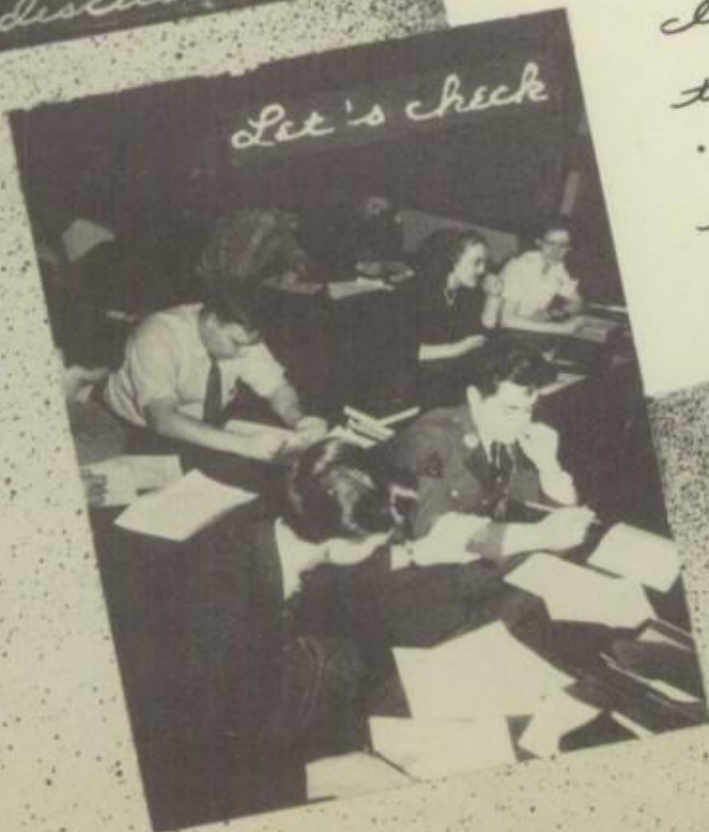

We're preparing in these classes for our parts in the rebuilding of the world tomorrow. . . . History is alive these days. . . .

Reports and discussions are not dry and uninteresting when they follow hamburgs and potato chips. The Current Events Club made itself very popular this year by offering defense stamps as prizes to those who asked and answered questions on their Annual Quiz. . . . A White Elephant Sale made one meeting hilarious. Miss Dively was almost always the highest bidder. We wonder what one of the members will do with his lovely string of beads.

... As you might guess, our math classes are growing. Nearly everyone takes math now - "mathematics not aerobatics," quoting Miss Reese. . . .

As each week brings some sort of new aptitude test for senior boys, they're more than thankful for their good foundations in math. We have heard about those wonderful records you've made, Joe. We've heard, and we're doing our best here - and working to make Central as proud of us as we are proud of you. . . .

The Math Club had its monthly meeting the other night in 116! Miss Reese approved our plans for a wonderful spring picnic. You know being a member of this club is something to look forward to during long semesters of keeping up a B-average in Math, and something to be mighty proud of once you're in . . . From what we hear, you would-be officers are mighty glad you had so many math activities in high school.

It's been swell hearing from you, Joe. Your letters take us right over miles of ocean to the places you see and describe. The French Foreign Legion and the native sheiks of North Africa; the natives on Guadalcanal; the huskies in Alaska — these live before our eyes. It was in English classes that you learned to appreciate your heritage of literature. You wrote themes, too. Maybe that's why you write such good letters.

Our Pen and Pencil Club meetings are always interesting — whether we're reading a humorous theme, playing a game, enjoying a spread, or eating something that Miss Clay has passed out for refreshment . . .

We're asking the English teachers to save some of their best themes. Then when a future Stewart Ed White or Arthur Vandenberg graduates from Central, he can thank the Pen and Pencil Club for preserving some of his early literary efforts. Silly? . . . Well, Joe, you never can tell . . .

Some of us used to study foreign languages merely to fulfill college entrance requirements. Nowadays, our growing faith in a workable federation of all nations makes us eager to understand other peoples - their customs and habits. Language study helps. . . We know the French better when we've learned to love their songs. We appreciate the Spanish more when we've studied their clothing, customs, and architecture. We understand the civilizations of every age and country more clearly when we've explored the classics of Rome.

There's one thing about French Club meetings, Joe, they're always different. The program may be a resume of some French story, or a talk on the derivation of words, or even a program of French opera selections. We'll not soon forget the unique games Miss G. Powers and Miss Mc Kenzie devise for our entertainment. We wish you could have been here, Joe, to see our part in the Christmas assembly. The colorful costumes and the beautiful harmony of French carols created a scene breathtakingly lovely.

Even Miss Holt and Miss Powers found the old Romans funny. Classical Club must be about the richest organization in Central. They have priority on half the profits from used book sales. They're generous, too. They donate books and make annual awards for excellence in Latin. You'd be proud to be a member of Classical Club - They gave $10. to the Red Cross.

Paintings on the walls, easels scattered about, tables littered with materials, the odor of oil paint, turpentine, wet clay, soap, ink - all these greet you, Joe, as you enter the art nooks on the second floor. You remember those peaceful junior high days when imagined airplanes filled your every "master-piece". Things are different now. These imaginings have become reality. War posters line our halls . . . turned out by future camouflage artists, cartoonists, muralists, illustrators. Art plays a great part in our victory effort.

Right change?

Have you heard about our new Major and Minor Club, Joe? That's the club made up of girls with high grades and music ability who realize that there is a wealth of musical talent here at Central. At their assembly they presented soloists as well as the combined Senior and Junior Girls' Glee Clubs. Later we hope they'll sponsor the Junior Chorus and the Boy's Glee Club. The Major and Minor Club, too, is very active - had a prize-winning table at the All-Club Banquet.

Strut, Earl!

When Mr. Petrilli donned his spiffy new uniform, our pride in our Central High Band was complete. This well-dressed, high-stepping band has led our school through all the year's activities, Joe - from football victories to music assemblies and the Spring Concert. They sure can play! - Remember Earl Burgering? He's just completed his 4th year as the drum major.

This year, as always, the orchestra played for many of our assemblies. This year, as always, they played their favorite march for many processions and recessionals — and each time it seemed to fit the occasion. How those brass and violin sections do improvise! The orchestra this year has provided excellent musical entertainment culminating in two musical assemblies. We always rate well in the All City Orchestra Festival. There's a reason, three reasons in fact — talent, Mr. Petrilli, and hard work.

If you lose your fountain pen here at Central, you go up to the Lost and Found Room to see if it has been picked up. You know, Joe, it's really an excellent service that the National Honor Society performs in running the Lost and Found. It's very efficient, too. That's because of the high caliber of the students who are elected into the Society. They are certainly a fine group, and Miss Powers and Miss Holt must be proud to sponsor such an outstanding organization.

Our chapter of the Junior Red Cross has worked hard during the year, carrying on their regular peacetime activities in addition to trying to help make things a little easier for fighting boys like you. In the fall we packed "Friendship Boxes," small packages of everyday luxuries to be sent to children in England. We went over the top in the annual Roll Call and this spring conducted a V-book campaign that was very successful. With Mrs. Pangborn's help we did our part in helping "the greatest mother in the world".

It was a notoriously lazy senior who remarked the other day, "This is no place to come to sleep!" Stretched on a bed made of two chairs, he had propped himself on one scrawny elbow and was looking at his hardworking classmates whose job it is to give Central the best Annual it has ever had. You never saw a more littered-up place than that office. You see, last semester the staff ran around the halls being inspired by student activities, getting brainstorm, and taking all the pictures we're sending you with this letter. When the time came for putting everything together, the whole Staff crowded into the littered, cartooned office to pool their ideas and evolve an Annual unlike any that had gone before. Their work is not finished at this writing, but they have learned a great deal about making a book in wartime with frozen supplies. When you read this, the Annual will have become one more milestone in Central's history.

Helios Circulation

After a few days of shouting by the editor, the circulation staff goes into action. Doug Wicks and his staff have done a grand job selling subscriptions, more than we have sold in many a year. Next, Hermie and her literary staff, Chuckie with her event and comment, and Ray's ad staff swing into production. Bill Hartmann snaps the pictures with the help of Graham, and Ed draws the pictures. Last but not least, Ernie and his staff collect. That keeps us going. Without the help of everyone concerned from the typing staff to the poster-makers, the Helios could never be put out.

The R.O.T.C. makes better citizens because it creates a better understanding of the responsibilities of citizenship. You service men know the necessity for discipline, and no doubt recognize the responsibility of the individual to the group. R.O.T.C. boys learn these things and the principles of leadership as well. Boys join because they want to become useful citizens. They feel that military training and discipline are important in the life of high school student because they teach him the weaknesses of past national defense and gives him a foundation on which to build himself into a good citizen.

When the government "request" for an accelerated physical program was announced, the morale of all senior boys immediately dropped to a low level. However, the boys' enthusiasm mounted until gym was once again favorite subject. Weekly tests involving sit-ups, squat jumps, pull-ups, back lifts, and push-ups have put "Conger's Commandos" into top shape. The girls, too, are utilizing calisthenics and indoor and outdoor games to strengthen their muscles. Because of this program, Joe, Central's contribution to Arm, Navy, Marines, Waacs, and Waves will be physically fit to carry out their new duties.

Catholic and Central Honors Evenly Divided in Fierce Football Fray

By K. C. CLAPP

In the annals of high school football it is doubtful if two more evenly matched football teams ever contested such a closely-fought game as that between Catholic Central and Central on Saturday afternoon. The game was a 13-13 dead tie.

13 to 13 Dead Tie

Entering the fray a slight underdog, Central Coach Ed Killoran's team, lost little prestige because of its failure to win the Parochials. On the other hand, Catholic Central, a team of superb coaching and indomitable spirit from kick-off to the end, surprised its most ardent supporters by virtue of its persistent attacks that earned them a 13-13 tie.

CATHOLIC DOMINATES

The game was a long-drag scrap all the way, neither side giving or receiving much. Both teams displayed superb coaching and indomitable spirit from kick-off to the end. Tactical errors were far between, and the game was a team play at it would be undivided stars, of at least 22. The game was a win's Gold and a defeat and matters into almost at the end. With the first quarter less than half gone, a long pass from Central's flashy back, Gus Afendoulis, to Quarterback Maloley was good to Central. Afendoulis then entered the fray a slight underdog, Central Coach Ed Killoran's team, lost little prestige because of its failure to win the Parochials. On the other hand, Catholic Central, a team of superb coaching and indomitable spirit from kick-off to the end, surprised its most ardent supporters by virtue of its persistent attacks that earned them a 13-13 tie.

CATHOLIC BOUNCES BACK

Flustered but undaunted, Catholic retaliated almost immediately. Taking the ball on the second kick-off, Catholic loosed a series of smashing line plays that worked its way to Central's 35. Vandenberg, Catholic back, then skirted the Central flank for 28 yards before he was brought to earth by Maloley on Central's seven-yard line. From there Vandenberg both hit the line for short gains, and then Myslewicz knifed over for a Catholic touchdown with two minutes to go in the first quarter. Vandenberg plunged over for the extra point, and the Cougars went ahead 7 to 6.

Fortunately for any weak hearts among the spectators, no more fireworks were touched off until the middle of the second quarter. Then De Boer of Central recovered a fumble by his teammate, Afendoulis, after the latter had caught a pass on Catholic's 20. Three fine plays were thrown for losses, but on the third, Catholic became too anxious and was penalized for roughness to the Catholic 17. Afendoulis wriggled through center for six yards. Central was penalized 15 for holding and then Afendoulis pitched a pretty pass to De Boer, who territory and had started up a pass.

He then entered the waiting end Baes, who was hemmed closely by two Central backs. Baes shook them both and raced over goal from Central's yard line. Myslewicz tripped for the extra point, stopped at the line of scrimmage and the count was 13-all. He remained for the rest of the contest, despite desperate and repeated aerial and ground thrusts by both sides.

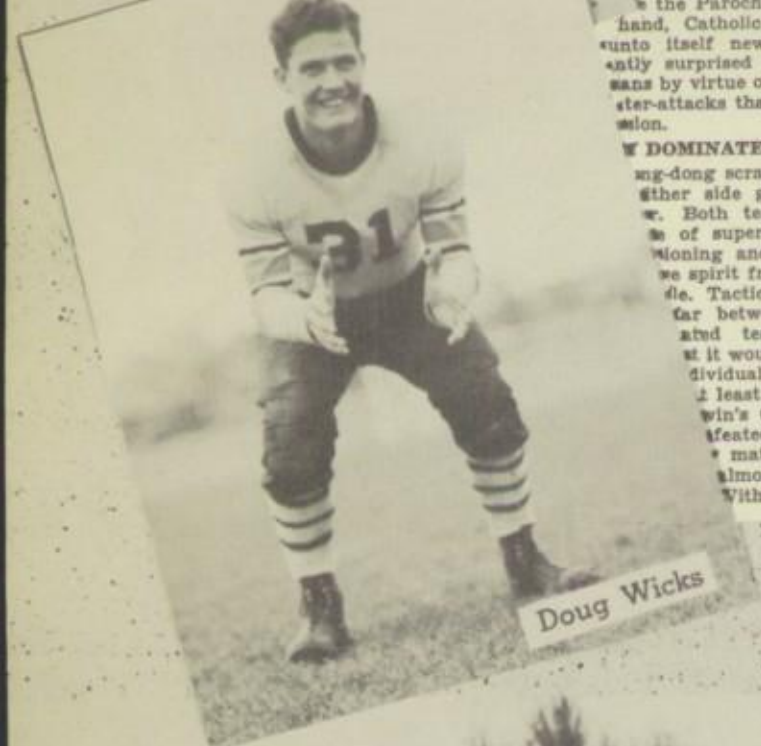

The game ended with Catholic possession on its own 40.

FUMBLE HALTS THREAT
Van Overloop failed to gain through the line, and then faded back to pass, but Frank Navara of Tech intercepted and ran the ball up to his 28. Dubiel and Gamble then reeled off long yardage to lug the ball to Central's 35, where Gamble made it another first down on Central's 25. Tech appeared to be goalward bound again, but when the Cats had reached the Hilltoppers' 16, Dubiel fumbled and Maloley recovered.
Right back at it, Central unleashed another blistering drive which had its beginning after an exchange of long punts. De Boer went off tackle for a first down on Central's 45. On a beautiful delayed spinner through the center of the line, Jim De Boer broke into the clear and raced to the Tech 16-yard stripe, a jaunt of 35 yards.
Here Maloley tried two long passes which availed nothing, and the half ended with no further scoring threat.

PUNT EXCHANGES
The third quarter found a determined Central emerging through Tech's 30, for downs to punt. Tter, in fact punts, with sistently rival.

It was, the fine Central w deep enough finally gat points that the tall Hi out of boc goal in th kick going other on could not q backs.

But here Central held and after another exchange of punts, the Gold and White got possession, and Maloley started firing passes from midfield. Two of these were incomplete, but on the third, the referee penalized Tech for pushing and Central was given the ball, first down, on the Tech 32. Maloley went off tackle for six, then pitched another strike to Helde on the Wildcats' 25. Still another heave, Maloley to Van Overloop was good down to the Tech 8.
Here the referee warned of a few seconds to play, and

AN EVEN BATTLE
The contest was evenly matched throughout, with hard-ground attacks of both teams lining off first downs repeatedly failing to register when with striking distance of the opponent goal which were desperately defended time after time. The games of Central and Tech beautiful to watch, with open attack clicking smoothly than Central's.
Tech engineered a deft midway of the first quarter three first downs too cats from their own Central's 22, largely smashes and end runs and passes from De Boer's rangy Tech end.
But that was as cats could penetrate for ment, because Center Lee Trann

Working under the handicap of changing coaches in midseason, the fightingest basketball squad Central has seen in a long time took upon themselves the task of upholding Central's athletic prestige gained during the football season. Considering our scores, victories, and losses, it is not without pride that we say they succeeded in accomplishing their purpose. Not only to the players, but to both coaches, Lt. (jg) Russell Waters and Danny Nameth, goes the credit for keeping alive the fighting spirit for which Central will always be remembered.

Central's younger football aspirants turned out in goodly numbers to play on Lt. (jg) Waters' reserve squad. These boys, playing on the Monday following each varsity night game, showed promise of becoming polished ball players for next year's first team. Combining the coach's knowledge of deception with long drill on football fundamentals, our second team again ended toward the top of the standings.

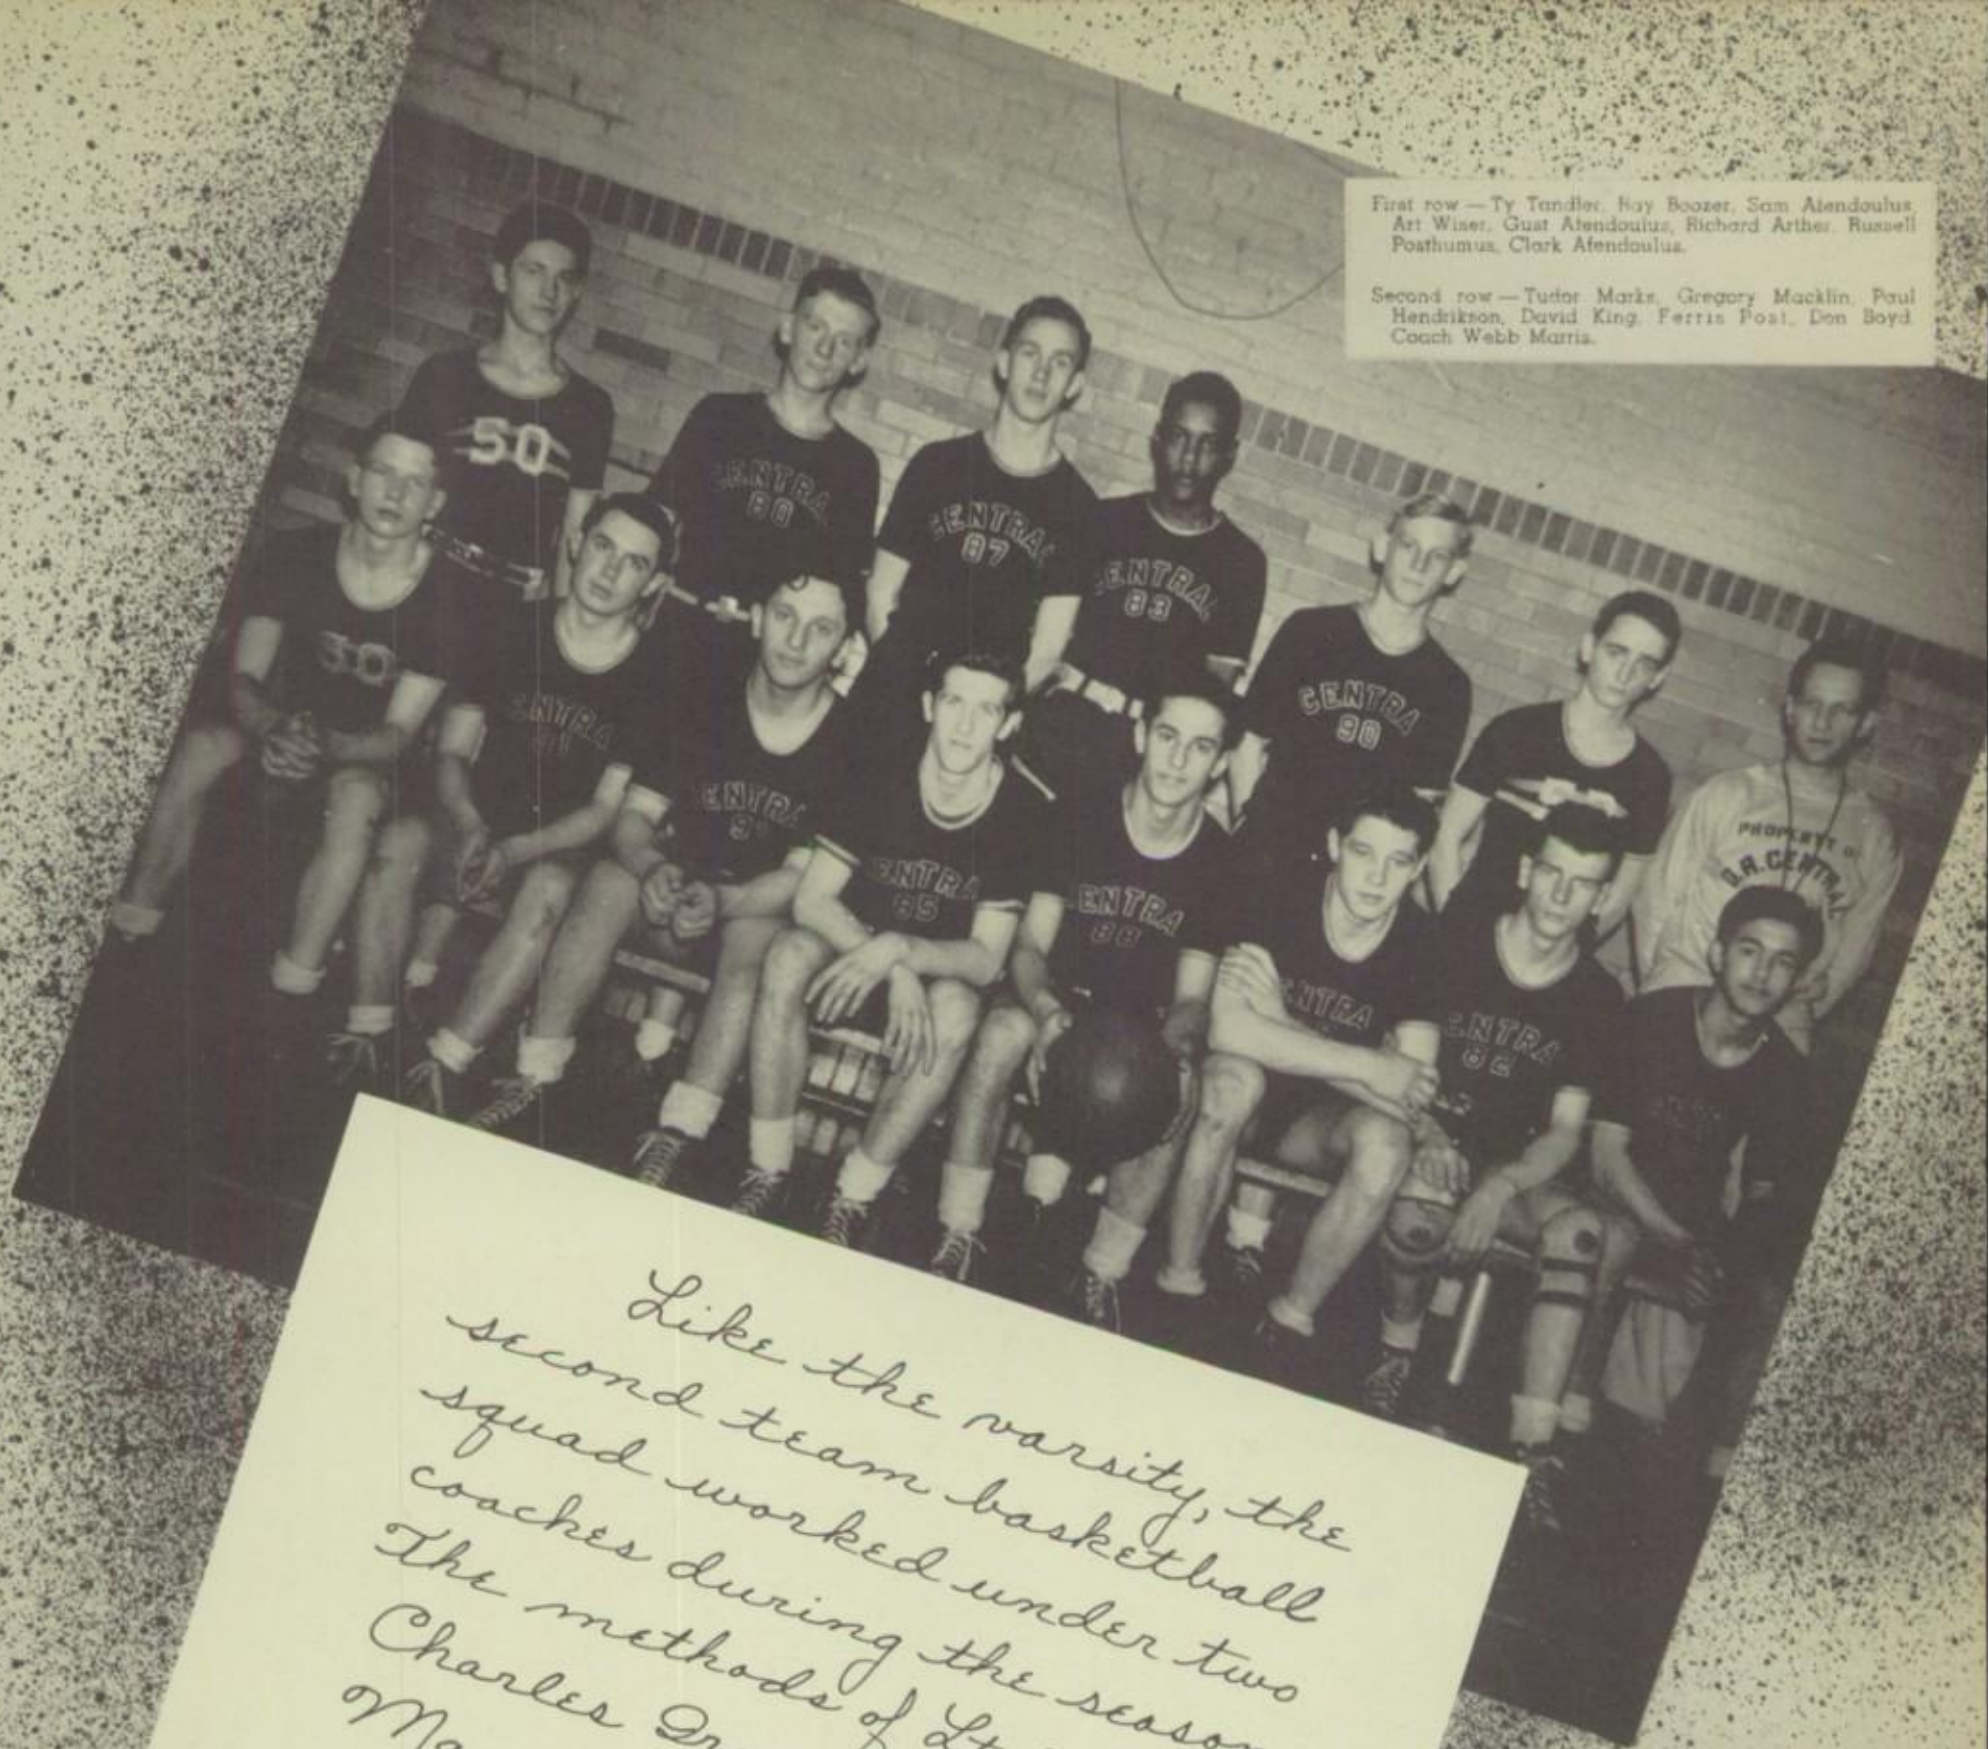

First row — Richard Wellington, Dave Williams, LeRoy Mitchell, Bob Williams, Jack Detzler, David Markey, Tudor Marks, Phillip Austin.

Third row — Gordon McCarty, Harold Phillips, Mike Bonny, Dick Arther, Art Wiser, Richard Mahoney, Bill Hartmann, Vim Dengl, Oscar Hale.

First row — Ty Tandler, Ray Boozer, Sam Alendoulus, Art Winer, Gust Alendoulus, Richard Arther, Russell Posthumus, Clark Alendoulus.

Like the varsity, the second team basketball squad worked under two coaches during the season. The methods of Lt. (jg) Charles Erwin and Webb Marris seemed to work together for good, as the team successfully ended the season by soundly trouncing Creston, the second team City Champs. Our boys played hard and fast ball, Joe, and deserved their high position in the reserve league standings.

Central's youngest basketball team composed of freshmen boys, enjoyed a season of city competition. "Mr. Benn De Groot, varsity basketball manager deluxe, took over the coaching assignment and did a creditable job, instructing boys who have had very little former experience in basketball fundamentals. The fine cooperation of our '45-'46 varsity team resulted in 3 win-3 loss season.

The "regulars" are Dykstra, Buist, Boone, Van Orden, De Groot, and Adrianse.

Many boys have twined out to keep alive Central's regular habit of running off with the high honors on the tennis courts. Loss of the Number One and Number Two men of the '42 team have acted as a stimulus to returning practice in adverse weather conditions should certainly pay dividends in doubles and singles victories later in the season. At least Coach Shroll thinks so - and so does Central.

"On your mark"

Central's boys who know the thrill of individual competition are out to overcome the loss of team balance resulting from the graduation of many 142 veterans. Post-humus (miler), Durkee (half miler), Le Vand, Sutter, and Van Zee (quarter milers), and Howard Huyser (three year veteran in the pole vault, broad jump, and hurdles) have already turned in good performances in their respective events. Coach Danny Nameth has also uncovered and developed men of potential brilliance in other events, so that a good season is more than a possibility.

With talk of homeruns, stolen bases, and double plays in the air, Coach Matthews looks over his fine veterans pitching staff and sound hitters with hopes for a winning season. And listen to this, Joe — All Central's Afendoulis family is playing on the team. How can we lose? Other schools seem to have tough, experienced teams, too, but our boys are ready and should give a good account of themselves against any and all competition.

. . . You know by now how many jobs there are which mean lots of hard work and very little credit. No group works harder than our sports managers. Late and early - afters the crowds, have left, hours before the games starts, in drizzling rain, in drenching downpour, in stifling heat, Jim Matthew and his crew, under the direction of "Mac", take care of equipment. This year we discovered that upperclassmen make good cheerleaders. Burt, Jim, and Ben surprised all of us, including the two Daves.

Pause that refreshes

You know by now that a great school like this doesn't just "run itself." There are many people here who keep the wheels greased and the halls swept. They remind us good naturedly to close the windows, turn the lights out, and leave by the front door. They help us to open our jammed lockers and have smiled patiently when we forgot our combinations. Mrs Bowen's understanding friendliness is as unfailing as her jingling keys and even more necessary to life at Central.

"Good sports" - Those are words that mean a lot to young people. You know what we mean, Joe. We respect and admire "good sports". They're our friends. Our teachers are the best of sports. Mr. Upton - who has the responsibility of running a school like Central - finds time to be friendly and understanding. Long after we've forgotten equations or memory selections, we'll remember the many jokes we've had with our teachers. Long after we've forgotten the Law of Diminishing Returns we'll remember their clever skits - just look at the All-Club Banquet pictures.

Filling out draft questionnaires, writing college applications, taking entrance exams, applying for jobs, getting recommendations, reporting for physicals, practicing for concerts, going out for sports, putting out an Annual - yes, Joe, the Seniors of 1943 have certainly had a busy year . . . We've had time, though, to look back on six years of making friends and absorbing knowledge, time to look ahead to an uncertain future which must be faced with courage and determination; time to realize that Miss Reese has been an untiring adviser - a sympathetic friend - time to say to all of our teachers "thanks for everything" .

We feel as every senior class has felt, no doubt, that our officers and our committee chairmen have done a superb job!

UNTRIED

Untried we come to heed the call
That ends our youth. Our well-thumbed books Are put away. Our pencil points
No longer roam. Old football stubs
Are torn in two. Our yellow C's
Are laid to rest between yearbooks
And pictures of our senior friends.
The once slow clock has reached the hour.

We go to fight for freedom's sake, Forfeiting college dreams. Hopes of A once-planned life are left until The task is done. We go to win
A war and make a lasting peace,
To make this world forever free.
"We come to learn; we leave to serve."
The once slow clock has reached the hour.

Joe, you're lucky! The government gives you your clothes. The poor costume committee was ordered to "beg, borrow, or steal" pastel pajamas chosen with care to blend delicately with purple stage-sets. . . . Imagine changing the set and setting up six beds in three minutes. The stage crew did it! - even with the prop committee razzing around under their feet. The amiable make-up committee did a good job of spreading the grease paint. It was well worth the effort though. According to the director, Miss Donke, we'll all receive our reward in heaven.

"I can't stop them from knowing what's going on in the world. I can't stop their letters from home; but after all, if I can't control six school girls who were the best of friends before the war. . . . This quotation embodies the theme of our Senior Play, Letters to Lucerne. It explains the struggle that the headmistress of a girl's boarding school in Switzerland had in maintaining a spirit of friendliness among girls from America, England, France, Poland, and Germany. You would feel, as we do, Joe, that the message of this timely play strengthens faith in the peace we look forward to "when the lights go on again".

Those happy, energetic kids that dashed past - can you guess what they were saying, Joe? - "It seems so far away - my senior year," la-ments the seventh grader. - These five years of high school have simply flown by, says the junior. - Those were underclassmen talking. Don't these two comments express in a nut-shell our high school experience? But what happens during these years is the most cherished memory of all. - Going to the first football game and dance, joining a club, racing to the lower hall for glazed doughnuts, laughing at the antics of seniors, working on the school magazine, trying out for a team, howling at the teacher's skit at the All-Club Banquet - and studying.

Juniors have a very exciting time — Just look at their pictures. — And notice their officers. The women don't run this class.

President: Bill Souter
Vice-Pres.: Benn De Groot
Secretary: Ben Plous
Treasurer: Cliff Ward

The girls make wonderful committee workers though. Miss Inglesk and Mr. Mc Dougall have little to worry about when they take over.

And so, Joe, we come to the last page. It has been an eventful senior year. For the first time in the history of Central we graduated a mid-year class, and for the first time in our generation have seen some of our students and some of our faculty wearing U. S. Service uniforms. In spite of war time restrictions, we had an All-Club Banquet and, although we don't line up for candy now, we still operate the school store. You'll be coming back some day, Joe, and you'll find the old school car on. As for us, "we can learn; we leave to s

Rich:
 We have had some high and low times together but they have all been fun.
 I'll be thinking of you in the fall when you are in school and I am in the army (maybe) Best of luck.
 Bob.

Dear Dick,
 I hope you have the best of luck in the future. Loads of luck, Lou.

If it wasn't for you, I would not skip all the

Time

Love

Duke

To one heck of a good guide Sgt. even though I did do a lot of beef. Best of you. a lot of years to come.
 Roger Vaughn

Dear Rich
 we had some arguments but you still a nice kid I guess.
 Dorothy

Dick—
 Remember the good old days back in Diamond. No good see you next year.
 Be good and I hope you I had an awful lot of luck. Sincerely
 P. Matthew
 Marylyn Robinson

Dick is a swell guide
Lgt. and school chum especially in History Rob and Ladwig

Hi Dick, the postman has just called to see if you want to order any more of those books of your father's Vladimir

Dick -
Good luck?
Keep drinking water and stay happy - Nat. S. of Reagan's

Dear Dick -
You're a swell kid and I hope you have all the luck in everything you do. Remember those double dates?
Sincerely,
Pat Simon

It will probably be a long time before we get out of this place, but of this swell first (guess)
and wear it back to grin
Good luck, always,
Marianne

Dear Dick,
Good luck to a wonderful kid.
